

FAMILY GUARDS PLATT

Afraid He Will Say Something More to the Newspapers.

MRS. ELIAS A PRISONER.

Besieged in Her Central Park Residence by Detectives and Process Servers, Negress Vents Her Feelings on Kato, Her Japanese Servant.

New York, June 3.—John R. Platt, the aged millionaire whose intimacy with the notorious negress, Hannah Elias, cost him in the neighborhood of a million dollars, is practically a prisoner in his house at 7 East Fifty-fourth street, kept so by the members of his family because of the remarkable interview which he gave out to the newspapers.

The family believed that it had surrounded the old man with every safeguard and that it would be impossible for anybody to get close enough to him to ask questions. Even the engineer of the building at 14 Church street, where Mr. Platt has an office, was instructed to throw anybody out of the building who attempted to talk to him, but in spite of this Mr. Platt found an opportunity to relieve his overburdened mind and took the public into his confidence on the subject of his twenty years' friendship for Hannah Elias.

Speechless From Astonishment.

When W. J. Cassard, son-in-law of Mr. Platt and the man who had undertaken to prevent him saying anything, read the interview he was so astonished that for a time he was speechless. In that interview were many things that Mr. Cassard and other members of the family had never heard before. The thing was a bigger shock to the family than the publication of the original suit, and it resulted in a family conference, at which measures were taken to see that Mr. Platt doesn't get a chance to say anything more.

Mrs. Elias is still in her house on Central Park West, while Pinkerton men and deputy sheriffs are guarding it. Every attempt to arrange for the woman to accept service in some one or all of the three cases now pending against her has failed, and while Mrs. Elias is wandering about her luxurious home wringing her hands and indulging in noisy hysteria, to the terror of the faithful Kato, Mrs. Elias' Japanese servant, and the amusement of the detectives, every possible exit has a man patrolling in front of it ready to give the alarm if Mrs. Elias appears.

No Papers Served Yet.

Lynn E. Warren, head counsel for Mr. Platt, made the astonishing statement that not one of the papers in the actions against Mrs. Elias has yet been served on her. There are now three actions—the suit for the recovery of the property, the restraining injunction which prevents Mrs. Elias from disposing of any of the property alleged to have been bought with Mr. Platt's money, and the order of arrest on the charge of extortion. Officially the woman is not cognizant of any of the actions against her.

If Mrs. Elias persists in remaining indoors the restraining injunction will probably have to be extended. It is returnable on Monday, and there seems little likelihood now that any service can be made in time. However, the watchers are patient.

NEVER NEGLECT EVERY-DAY ILLS.

A cold is one of the everyday ills of life. People of all ages, in summer and in winter, are liable to catch cold, and a cold is always dangerous, because a cold is but the beginning of catarrh of some internal organ—head, lungs, stomach or pelvic organs. Any remedy that will cure a cold should cure the many effects of a cold. That's why Smith's Triple Cure is so popular, why people are so enthusiastic after experiencing its wonderful curative power. Smith's Triple Cure promptly cures colds and catarrh wherever located, because it acts directly on the depressed nerve centers, giving strength and vigor to tired nerves, removing the congestion of the circulation and imparting renewed vitality to the mucous membranes.

Picture to yourself the horrors of bronchial catarrh—the terrible cough, disgusting expectoration, wheezy breath and loss of strength, or the tortures of female catarrh—the swollen bowels, shooting pains, offensive discharges, displacements and burning distress, and then realize, if you can, how thankful these sufferers are for Smith's Triple Cure which has delivered them out of their troubles. Is it any wonder that Smith's Triple Cure is rapidly displacing all other catarrh treatments in hospitals and sanitariums and is prescribed by the medical profession generally? It meets a want felt for centuries, yet felt now in this strenuous life of ours as never before. Smith's Triple Cure cures catarrh sufferers of all ages, makes the sick well and the weak strong; it builds up healthy digestion, makes strong nerves and enriches the blood. That's why all the world is praising it, why its magical curative power is talked about in the homes and on the streets.

Smith's Triple Cure consists of four separate preparations, three remedies taken internally acting on the mucous membranes, stomach, liver and digestive organs, purifying and enriching the blood, and a catarrh cream used locally in allaying all inflammation and killing all disease germs in the nasal passages, throat and lungs, a full two weeks' treatment of combined remedies, sold for only 50 cents by all dealers, the greatest value for the money ever offered. If your druggist won't supply you, send 25 two-cent stamps by mail today, and we will send it postpaid and guarantee safe delivery. Address W. F. Smith Co., 125 Summer Street, Boston, Mass.

APPEAL TO RAISULI.

Moslem Chiefs Ask Him to Give Up His Captives.

FEAR FOR THEIR FAITH.

Think Landing of Foreign Marines Would Result in Permanent Occupation of Morocco and Expulsion of Native Mohammedans.

Tangier, Morocco, June 3.—The Italian third class cruiser Dogali has arrived here.

A delegation of chiefs of the Angera tribe has left here to make a personal appeal to Raisuli, the bandit chief, to release Messrs. Perdicaris and Warley "in order to prevent the debarkment and permanent occupation of Morocco by foreigners opposing the Moslem faith and the expulsion of native Mohammedans." This mission is considered important, as the Mohammedan chiefs unite in appealing to Raisuli not to endanger their religious supremacy in Morocco. The French government relies much upon the appeal to Mohammedan sentiment.

The natives are greatly excited by the arrival of so many foreign warships. They call all foreigners "roumis," meaning infidels, and they fear the "roumis" are about to make a united effort to drive out those who are of the Mohammedan faith.

Rear Admiral Jewell, accompanied by United States Consul General Gurnee, visited the representative of the sultan, Mohammed el Torres, and were saluted by the town battery. Mohammed returned the visit at the consulate, the flagship Olympia firing a salute in his honor.

Admiral Jewell subsequently called on the British minister.

DELEGATES RELEASED.

Effort to Break Illinois Quaternational Deadlock.

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—When the Republican state convention was called to order Delegate Reeves presented a report from the committee on resolutions recommending the release of delegates from their instructions, and Colonel Lowden then addressed the convention releasing his delegates. Governor Yates also made a speech releasing his delegates. Charles S. Deneen and all the other candidates in turn made speeches releasing their delegates.

Joseph G. Cannon, chairman of the convention, then asked leave to make a five minute speech. This was accorded him, with cheers, Congressman Rodenberg taking the chair.

When Mr. Cannon finished speaking Delegate Reeves called for a vote on the question of releasing delegates from their instructions. The recommendation to release was adopted by the convention.

The sixty-seventh ballot, the first of the day, was then taken. It resulted: Yates, 47; Lowden, 408; Deneen, 386; Hamlin, 118; Warner, 30; Sherman, 53; Pierce, 26.

DARBYCREEK MURDER

Identity of Man Burned at Stake Still a Mystery.

STOLEN OIL CAN FOUND.

This, With Two Suspender Buckles, Half a Hand and Part of a Shoe All That the Police Have to Work On. No Murdered Woman.

Philadelphia, June 3.—Detectives of Delaware county and this city are working hard in an endeavor to unravel the mystery connected with the finding of the body of a man on Memorial day in the marsh close to the banks of Darby creek. The place where the charred body was found is in a treacherous marsh lying between the Delaware river and Darby creek, and is ten miles south of Philadelphia. On the banks of Darby creek are scores of boat-houses, many of them being the rendezvous of dissolute men and women who spend nearly every Sunday during the summer months in drinking and carousing.

Detective Berry of Delaware county does not believe the man was murdered where the body was found, but is of the opinion that he met death in one of the boat-houses during a quarrel and that the body was then carried into the marsh. It is evident an attempt had been made to destroy all evidences of identification by burning the body and the murderer or murderers covered their tracks well. Within a few hundred yards of the spot where the body was found is the farmhouse of William Horne.

On the night of Sunday, May 22, a rope and two pieces of chain were stolen from Horne's barn. This chain was found close to the body of the murdered man. It had been fastened to fenceposts by staples, and after close investigation the detectives arrived at the conclusion that the man had become involved in a quarrel over a game of cards in one of the boat-houses and had been murdered; that his body was chained to the posts, saturated with oil and then set on fire.

A two gallon oil can, comparatively new and which had been stolen from the Horne residence, was lying close to the charred trunk, which would seem to bear out this theory. Two suspender buckles, half of a hand and the top of a shoe are the only means by which the detectives can hope to identify the murdered man. A report has been current to the effect that the body of a woman had been found close to where the man's body was discovered, but the detectives have thus far been unable to locate the persons who, it is claimed, made the discovery.

WANTS LARGE FAMILIES.

Minister Blames Five Room Flats For Race Suicide.

St. Louis, June 3.—In an address before the Missouri State Congregational association on "The Religious Opportunity and Obligation of the Home," the Rev. Cyrus F. Stinson of Kansas City impressed on the ministers that it is their duty to have large families. The modern five room flat he declared to be an enemy to family life, and emphasized this remark by stating that the owners of such property have placed a premium on small families, and accordingly upon infantile.

One of the great evils of modern society he declared to be the fact that people put off marital obligations until too late in life. "Parents are greatly to be blamed for this. They exact of the sinner for their daughter's hand conditions that most young men cannot comply with. It is the duty of preachers of the gospel to preach to the members of their flocks urging early marriages and large families."

ESCAPES FROM PORT ARTHUR

Lieutenant Colonel Gourko Reaches Mukden With Dispatches.

St. Petersburg, June 3.—Lieutenant Colonel Gourko has arrived in Mukden from Port Arthur after safely crossing the Japanese lines.

Lieutenant Colonel Gourko is attached to the staff of General Pock and was the bearer of important information regarding the fighting at Kijichau and the situation at Port Arthur. A long dispatch is now being deciphered at the war office. It probably contains the intelligence brought by Lieutenant Colonel Gourko.

According to information in possession of the general staff the enemy has five divisions and five reserve corps, about 80,000 men, on the Liaoning peninsula and at least seven divisions and seven reserve corps, about 125,000 men, in southern Manchuria. Although the impression prevailed among the members of the general staff that General Kuroki's purpose was to make feints to prevent General Kurapatkin from moving, but not to attack him until the result of the campaign against Port Arthur is determined, there is now apparently more inclination to think he will try a demonstration in force, which might result in a decisive engagement.

Work on the Wiju Railroad.

Seoul, June 3.—General Yamate, head of the construction department of the Wiju railroad, has removed his main office to Chemulpo for convenience in the superintendence of the disembarkment and reshipment of material to the various northern points where work is progressing. Grading has been finished for a distance of twenty-five miles from Seoul, with all necessary bridges constructed for fifteen miles out. Tracks will be laid along this stretch of road upon the completion of a long cutting near Yonhan, which will enable the trains port by rail of heavy rubbers and materials instead of the present difficult method of carrying them in by bullock carts over rough roads. Work on the branch now under construction north from Songdo is progressing in a satisfactory manner and it is expected the Pingyang will be reached by the beginning of December.

As a result the inspector said Gabinski would be sent to the detention hospital for mental examination.

Missing Millionaire Said to Have Been Seen There.

A man answering Kingsley's description stopped at a hotel at Provo, Utah, Monday night. He told the clerk that he was a business man of New York and had lost two fortunes. He was avoiding his enemies, he said, because they thought he had considerable money with him. Later, a man answering very closely the descriptions sent out of Mr. Kingsley called at the home of the local representative of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad and asked for a small loan, saying he had left his grip at Provo. He said he was well acquainted with the New York officials of the Northwestern, of whom he talked familiarly. The man, who gave his name as Wallace, appeared to be slightly dazed. He disappeared and no further trace of him has been found.
